

Park Planning

Warner Robins

- Warner Robins, Georgia is a baseball hotspot for tournaments throughout the Southeast, and visitors contribute much revenue to the city

- the city administration calls for at least 9 new baseball diamonds, ample parking, and a community center

- the development encompasses a range of around $10 million

- the core of the site is free from vehicular traffic

- additional amenities include a large, public garden and a splash pad

- the community center sits at the high point of the site, allowing views of all baseball fields from its outdoor deck
